Terrasolid can open data that contain a combination of GIS data and attribute data. Nov 2010, Terrasolid includes Terrasolid Map and Terrasolid Cadastre. The map in Terrasolid includes vector and raster data, topographic, digital elevation, and land cover data. Cadastre in Terrasolid includes a generic GIS layer, attribute. If you are creating a new Terrasolid project, use the Terrasolid Project Wizard, found in the File menu. The Wizard is helpful to set up a project with appropriate data types and to save the data once it is complete. Open an existing Terrasolid project. Use the Map window to create, update, delete, and manage layers. Choose a layer and click the Map window. The Map window is divided into three areas:, Map, and Properties. The Map area is where you create and edit the project. The Map area includes three tabs that will help you view the project map: Terrasolid Map, Sketch Pad, and Styles and Map. The Map area is where you set the project map. Choose from a number of map projections. Check the Use on the fly projection check box. Adjust the scale, rotation, and locations of map features by dragging. Type in the scale in meters or feet. If the scale is not in meters or feet, click. Choose a geographical coordinate system. Add, delete, and edit maps, markers, and other features. Drag and drop the tools of your choice from the Tools menu onto the map. When a tool is clicked, a tool tip appears, showing the tool's name and function. To change the color of a layer, select the layer, and from the Layer menu, choose Map color. To create a custom marker, choose from available and custom markers. Choose from 14 different marker shapes, plus ellipses, polygons, and circles. To create a custom marker, use the
